Example for Level Sum Assured Option

Mr. Sharma, 35 year old and healthy (non-smoker), opts for Max Life Super Term Plan. He chooses to buy Level Sum Assured option with a term of 30 years. He pays ₹ 16,500 as his yearly premium for a Sum Assured of ₹ 1 Crore.

Settlement Option 1

On sudden demise of Mr. Sharma during 10th policy year (i.e., post payment of 10 Annualised Premiums), his wife (nominee) opts to take the entire proceeds from the policy from which she receives the lump sum amount of ₹ 1 Crore immediately.

Settlement Option 2

On sudden demise of Mr. Sharma during 10th policy year (i.e., post payment of 10 Annualised Premiums), his wife (nominee), is not sure how to use the entire Death Benefit. Instead of taking the entire amount as lump sum, she plans to opt for the Settlement Option 2 where she will get ₹ 50 Lakhs as lump sum immediately after death and the remaining ₹ 50 Lakhs as monthly income (starting from next policy anniversary) increasing at 8.50% p.a. (simple rate) every year starting from the policy anniversary following the date of death.

*The income will start from the policy anniversary following the date of death.

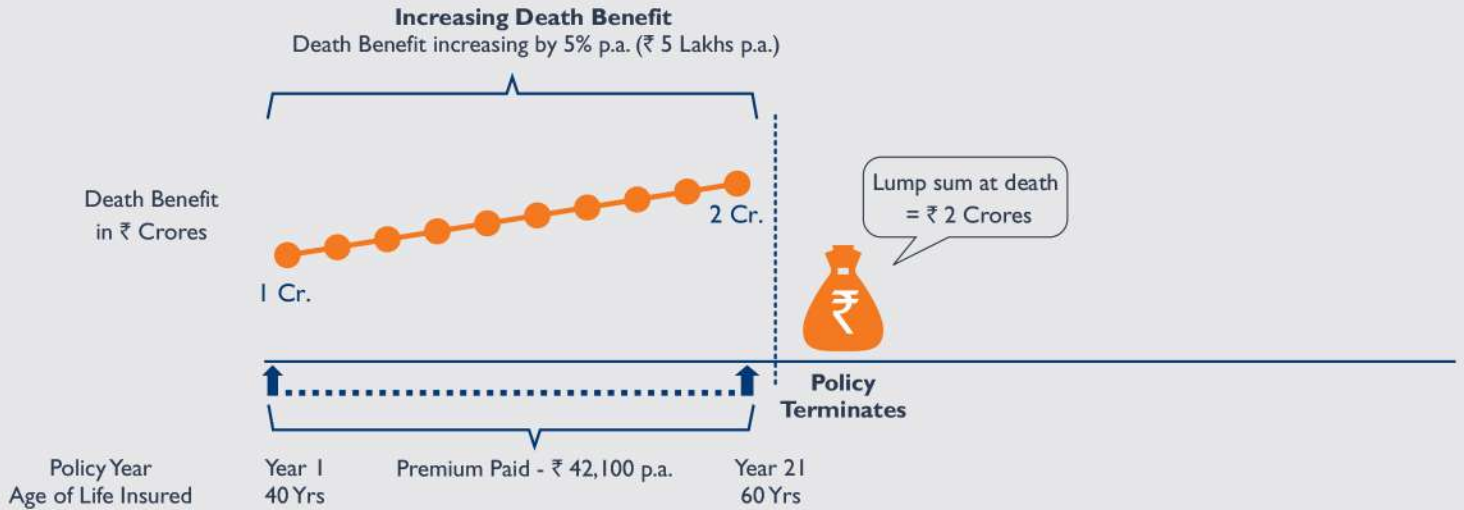

The above illustrations and stated values are only suggestive. Actual Premium amount and Sum Assured may vary depending on the age, health conditions and certain other factors.

Example for Increasing Sum Assured Option

Mr. Verma, 40 year old, healthy (non-smoker), opts for Max Life Super Term Plan. He wants a Protection Plan where the Life Cover increases every year to mitigate the impact of inflation. He opts for Increasing Sum Assured option with a term of 30 years. He pays ₹ 42,100 as his yearly premium for an initial Sum Assured of ₹ 1 Crore. Now Mr. Verma's Sum Assured increases every year by ₹ 5 Lakhs (5% of initial Sum Assured of ₹ 1 Crore) till the end of Policy Term.

Settlement Option 1

On sudden demise of Mr. Verma during 21st policy year (i.e., post payment of 21 Annualised Premiums), his wife (nominee) opts to take the entire proceeds from the Policy as lump sum amount. In the 21st policy year, Mr. Verma's Sum Assured has increased to ₹ 2 Crores (increase of ₹ 5 Lakhs per annum) which will be paid to his nominee.

Settlement Option 2

On sudden demise of Mr. Verma during 21st policy year (i.e., post payment of 21 Annualised Premiums), his wife (nominee), instead of taking the entire amount as lump sum, opts for the Settlement Option 2. In the 21st policy year, Mr. Verma's Sum Assured has increased to ₹ 2 Crores (increase of ₹ 5 Lakhs per annum) so his wife will get ₹ 1 Crore as lump sum immediately after death and the remaining ₹ 1 Crore as monthly income (starting from next policy anniversary) increasing at 8.50% p.a. (simple rate) every year starting from the policy anniversary following the date of death.

*The income will start from the policy anniversary following the date of death.

The above illustrations and stated values are only suggestive. Actual premium amount and Sum Assured may vary depending on the age, health conditions and certain other factors.
